

An aerial photograph of a winding asphalt road along a rocky coastline in Norway. The road curves from the bottom center towards the middle right. The sea is a deep blue, and there are several small islands and peninsulas. In the background, a large mountain range is visible under a blue sky with scattered white clouds. In the top left corner, there are several thin, curved lines in yellow and orange, resembling a stylized sun or a decorative graphic element.

An aerial photograph of a scenic coastal road in Norway. The road is a two-lane asphalt road that curves along a rocky coastline. To the left of the road is a steep, rocky embankment with some green vegetation. To the right is the sea, with several small, rocky islands and a long bridge crossing a narrow strait. In the background, there are large, dark mountains under a blue sky with scattered white clouds. The overall scene is bright and clear, suggesting a sunny day.
